Whitten Exhibit – Butterflies and Beetles

If you haven't seen the latest portion of the Whitten Exhibit of beautiful creatures, you need to stop by the library and see them! What gorgeous butterflies and beetles from exotic places.
